

Mount Charles Band

Press Release

November 2014

Plethora of New Appointments!

After a highly successful season culminating in three sell out Proms concerts to over 2,000 people at the Minack Theatre in Cornwall, Mount Charles are delighted to welcome several new players into the band.

Hannah Plumridge joins on assistant principal cornet from Roche Brass and the band are thrilled to welcome back Adam Gore to the front row cornets after a spell away in Scotland.

Matt Dixon has joined on Principal euphonium from Aldbourne Band which sees Jeremy Taylor move to Eb bass. Also in the bass section the band welcome back Nick Taylor on Bb bass alongside Louise Oliver on second trombone, both from Bodmin Band.

Adding to the ever increasing percussion team, Tom Plumridge joins from Lymptstone Band.

Finally, Kate Waller steps up into the second horn seat and Owen Thomas joins on tuned percussion, both of whom have progressed from the youth band. Sam Baker also joins from Launceston Band on third cornet.

Mount Charles MD Simon Badge, “The band has been a highly rewarding place to be over the last six months and we are very focussed on building up the strength of the band ahead of an exciting 2015 contest season.” “The players here have always been dedicated in encouraging the youth element into the senior band and these final three players are yet more evidence of their committed approach to promoting from within our own organisation.”
